

Student assistant at the Chair of Management Accounting & Control

The Chair of Management Accounting & Control at the Westfälische Wilhelms-Universität Münster under the direction of Prof. Dr. Martin Artz is constantly looking for applications for student assistants (approx. 5 hours/week, adjustable).

What you can expect

We offer all advantages of a young, dynamic and internationally oriented team. We foster your personal development through mentoring and guidance, and enabling you to work independently.

We conduct empirical research on management control, performance management, and strategy implementation. We strive to advance corporate practice by providing state-of-the-art research insights in these core areas.

Your main tasks relate to the Chair's research, teaching and chair administration. Here, you will support us, for example, through literature research, data collection and analysis, or the creation and maintenance of lecture materials.

What you should offer

You have successfully demonstrated exceptional achievements and commitment during your previous schooling, vocational training and/or studies.

Further, you can show relevant practical experience, are able to work independently and have a structured and goal-oriented work ethic. Naturally, you have pronounced English language and MS Office skills.

You are interested in our core topics and in empirical research on an international level. It excites you to work in a team, and to broaden your academic and personal horizon. Your willingness and motivation to familiarize yourself with new topics and tasks characterize you.

In case of any questions, please do not hesitate to contact Silvan Kindinger via email at management.control@wiwi.uni-muenster.de.

Kindly submit your application as a single document (CV, supporting documents and a letter of motivation in PDF format) to the aforementioned email address. Please include the earliest possible start date.

We are looking forward to your application!

Prof. Dr. Martin Artz
