WELCOME TO PEDD

Dear colleagues and friends,

it is with great pleasure that the local organization team welcomes you to the conference on the Political Economy of Democracy and Dictatorship (PEDD) at the University of Münster in Germany. It is now the fourth edition in a series of conferences, which have all taken place since 2017. PEDD is a joint project of the Chair of Political Economy together with Mario Ferrero of the University of Eastern Piedmont, Italy, Mario Gilli of Bicocca University Milan, Italy, and Yuan Li of the University of Duisburg-Essen, Germany. PEDD generally aims at promoting research and academic discourse on the origins, mechanisms and consequences of different types of political regimes. We seek to produce new insights on the dynamics of transition processes from dictatorship to democracy and vice versa, on the relation between political regimes and economic prosperity as well as on the micro-structures of (in)stability of comparative political regimes. But foremost, bringing together scholars interested in interdisciplinary work on comparative political systems is at the heart of our endeavor.

Once again, PEDD will take place in the city of Münster which provides an excellent and picturesque backdrop, particularly so for an interdisciplinary conference on the political economy of democracy and dictatorship. The city does not only look back on some 1,200 years of turbulent history. It also became famous for being one of the two cities in which the European powers negotiated the famous Westphalian Peace Treaty, which ended the Thirty Years' War in 1648, one of the most devastating wars in European history. This Westphalian Peace marks a milestone on the way to a European framework of peace and mutual respect. Münster's historical Town Hall hosts the Peace Hall where the historical treaties were signed. It is located in the center of Münster's charming Old Town which, having been almost completely destroyed in World War II, was meticulously reconstructed along the lines of its original appearance. Adjacent to Münster's St. Pauls Cathedral with its bishop's seat we find the late gothic St. Lamberti Church as well as the Town Hall amidst rows of gabled houses and colonnades, together composing what Münster's citizens are proudly referring to as their "Prinzipalmarkt" (principal market).

Today, Münster is one of Germany's most vibrant centers of science, education and culture. Having won the UN award for the livable city of its size in 2004, the city exudes scientific excellence in a most livable environment. Münster hosts one of the largest universities in Germany with over 44,000 students. More than 10,000 students are enrolled in programs at the numerous other colleges in the city. The School of Business and Economics is one of the largest departments at the university of Münster, and also one of the largest business and economics departments in Germany. As such, it covers a broad range of fields in both research and education. Being an integral part of this department, the Center of Interdisciplinary Economics (CIW) with its Chair of Political Economy promotes economic research and teaching that crosses the border between economics and political science, in particular fields such as the political economy of institutions, political transitions and the origins and consequences of violent conflict.

The organizers thank all those that helped making PEDD 2020 become reality. The local organization team is particularly indebted to the perfect assistance provided by our office managers Kerstin Heitmann and Clementine Kessler as well as by our student assistants. Without the dedication and commitment of these people, there would be no PEDD conference. We are looking forward to an insightful and inspiring PEDD conference 2020.

Sincerely,

The Local Organization Team

INFORMATION ON THE PARALLEL SESSIONS

There will be three to four parallel sessions with up to three presentations in each session. Presenters are indicated in capital letters in the program below. If a co-author is present, their affiliation is also mentioned. The last presenter will chair each session. His or her job is to start and conclude the session on time and supervise that the total time for each paper does not exceed the adequate share of time of the total session.

For sessions with three papers, the total time for each paper should not exceed 30 minutes and should be allocated as follows:

- 20 minutes for the presentation
- five minutes for the discussant
- five minutes for questions and comments from the audience.

Each presenter is asked to briefly discuss one other paper during his or her session. Each paper has been assigned a discussant and assignments are indicated in the detailed program below.

All papers are available at <https://www.wiwi.uni-muenster.de/loep/en/pedd/pedd-papers-2020>. You can download the paper you have been assigned to discuss or papers you would like to read. Access to the papers is restricted to conference participants.

Each session room is equipped with a projector and a laptop (capable of displaying .pdf and .ppt/.pptx slides). To minimize time losses, please upload your slides onto the laptop and check your presentation ahead of your session. Our assistants will be glad to help you.

Please check the conference webpage for last-minute changes in the program due to cancellations.

Roger Congleton: Why rational choice politics needs ethics

Roger Congleton is BB&T Professor for Economics at West Virginia University in Morgantown, USA. He started his career at Virginia Polytechnic Institute where he obtained a PhD in Economics in 1978 under the supervision of Nobel Prize Laureate James Buchanan. In 1988, he became a professor at George Mason University where he was the director of the famous Center for the Study of Public Choice between 1999 and 2002. In 2011, Prof. Congleton accepted a position as professor at West Virginia University. Highly international in character, his CV comprises a large number of research stays at renowned universities, such as Oxford University in England or Århus University in Denmark. He visited the Chair of Political Economy at the University of Münster in the summer semester of 2011. Since 2013, Prof. Congleton has been co-editor of Constitutional Political Economy and since 2018, he has been serving as president of the Public Choice Society. Prof. Congleton's research specifically focuses on voting behavior, decision making processes in democracies as well as rent-seeking. His work has been published in leading relevant journals, such as Public Choice, Constitutional Political Economy and European Journal of Political Economy. Besides that, Prof. Congleton is author and editor of various handbooks and encyclopedias.
